BANGLADESH

SOUTHEAST ASIA

* Cox's Bazar, a coastal town in Bangladesh, is home to about 900,000 Rohingya who fled to avoid ethnic and religious persecution.

* This town is prone to climate-induced cyclones, leaving behind a trail of destruction such as flooding, loss of homes, and displacement.

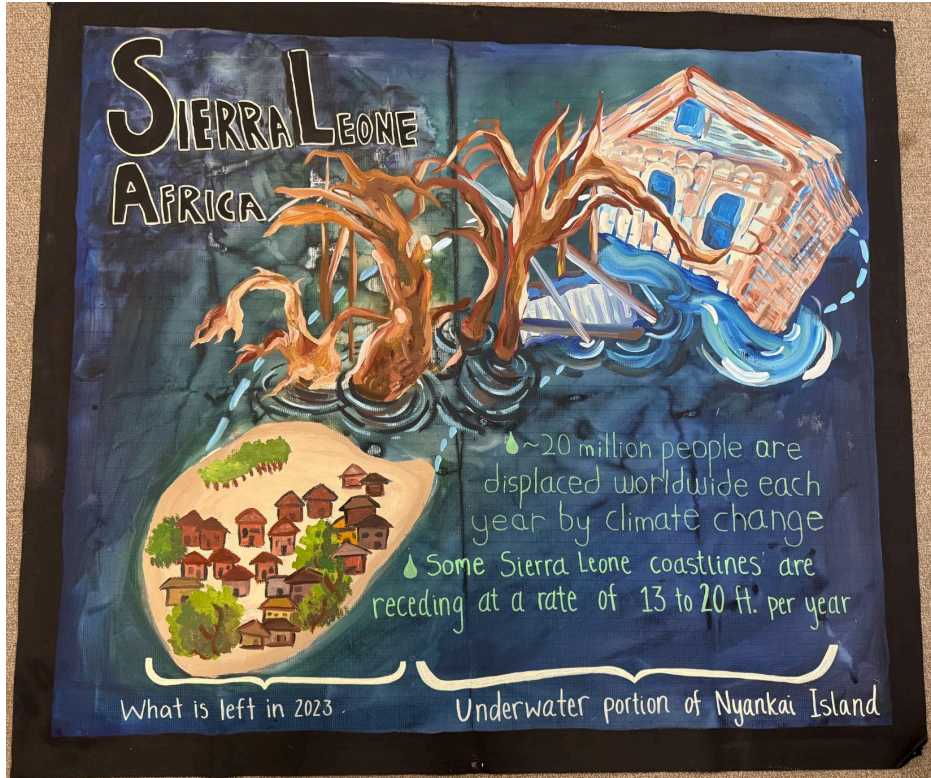

ARGENTINA

SOUTH AMERICA

* Without urgent action, Argentina will see a 65% increase in the frequency of agricultural drought by 2050.

* Climate change will impact crop productivity and put additional strain on Argentina's water resources, impacting the economy.
